The return* of Jess Pugh and his girls, as the platform manager chose to style them, to his native heath was marked by as much enthusiasm and appreciation as his first appearance here at the chautauqua last year. He gave several readings that had a touch of local color, and, of course, they were very popular. The work of his company was also applauded vigorously.

The chautauqua management is making preparations for entertaining the largest crowd tomorrow that ever gathered here. The Innes orchestra band is the highest priced attraction ever obtained at this chautauqua or at any other Indiana chautauqua and it is believed that the attendance will merit the bringing of the band here. John E. Gunkel, the famous authority on boys, arrived here last night. He lectured this afternoon on "The Boy Problem." Mr. Gunkel gives but four lectures each summer, because he devotes most of his time in the summer to work among boys and lectures during the winter. Mr. Gunkel walked over Rushville and complimented the committee on the appearance of the city. He said that the patrons of the chautauqua here could not appreciate the excellent buildings and grounds until they had seen some where he had lectured.

The chautauqua management is expecting great things of Friday when Maude Ballington Booth will lecture in the afternoon and the Kellogg-Haines Singing Party will give a full concert in the evening.

DR. F. H. DAVIS IS GOING TO NEBRASKA

Local Veterinarian Sells His Practice to Dr. D. D. Dragoo of Hamilton County.

TO WORK WITH DR. L. C. KIGIN

Dr. D. D. Dragoo of near Sheridan, Hamilton county, has purchased the practice of Dr. F. H. Davis, veterinarian, and will open up an office here immediately. Dr. Dragoo comes highly recommended. He is a graduate of the Indiana veterinary college and was a student in Indiana university before taking up the special work.

Dr. Davis and his family will leave the middle of this month for Lincoln, Nebraska, their former home, where Dr. Davis will resume a partnership practice, with Dr. L. C. Kigin, formerly a partner of Dr. Davis here. It will be recalled that Dr. Kigin was recently appointed state veterinarian of Nebraska. Dr. Davis regrets to leave Rushville and his friends regret it equally as much that he is leaving.

CONTRACT FOR ADDITION LET

Spiceland Contractor Will Make Improvement at Spiceland Academy—The Cost Will be $13,000.

TROUBLE IN RAISING MONEY

The contract for the new Spiceland academy building has been let to Frank Bundy of Spiceland for approximately $13,000. Mr. Bundy will begin operations immediately after the old building has been torn down and a force of men are engaged in doing this at present.

There was quite a bit of trouble experienced in obtaining a sufficient amount of money by subscriptions to cover the bid made by the contractor and consequently there has been several weeks delay. Sam Foust of Newcastle offered the lowest bid, which was in the neighborhood of $13,000, but it was ascertained that there was not enough money subscribed and all bids were collecting more money and securing more subscriptions and, Saturday the required amount was secured.

It is understood that Mr. Bundy, the successful bidder, donated a neat little sum towards the erection of the building.

WATSON WILL NOT TESTIFY

Rushville Man Withdraws Request to Appear Before Senate Lobby Investigating Committee.

SAYS CASE ALREADY JUDGED

Committee Majority to Indicate in Interviews—Watson Would Talk in the House.

After having been in Washington, D. C., for nearly five weeks without accomplishing the purpose for which he went, James E. Watson of this city today left for Shelbyville, Illinois to resume his lecture tour on the chautauqua platform.

Mr. Watson sent a letter to the Senate lobby investigating committee yesterday withdrawing his request to reply to the Mulhall charges he reached the conclusion that the Democratic majority members of the committee had already judged the case, judging from signed interviews in the New York World, without hearing the accused, and that it would be a waste of breath for him to appear.

At the same time Mr. Watson sent a letter to the House investigating committee, asking to appear before that committee which has begun an inquiry into Mulhall's charges.

Mr. Watson incorporated in his letter the interviews published with the three members of the committee in the World. His letter omitting these quotations, was as follows:

"My Dear Senator—Obeying your subpoena. I came to this city four weeks ago to testify at such time as your committee might designate.

"On the 22d ult., not having called. I wrote you and urged you to permit me to testify in order that I might be able to look after my affairs and to fill my chautauqua engagements.

"On the 23rd in response thereto, you wrote me, releasing me from your subpoena and from further attendance upon your committee. On the 24th, I responded that, inasmuch as a large number of letters had been submitted to the committee relating to my campaign for the governorship of Indiana and to my subsequent career in and out of Congress, I would not consent to leave here without giving my views on the various propositions involved and asking you to kindly give me an early opportunity to appear before your committee.

"Since that time I patiently waited until last Saturday, when I was notified that I might have an opportunity to testify on Monday, Aug. 4, at 11 o'clock.

"I was indeed glad of the opportunity thus afforded and fully intended to take advantage of the chance thus offered, and for which I had so long waited, when my attention was called to three signed statements published in the New York World last Saturday which have altered my purpose and which constrain me to withdraw my request to be heard by your committee.

"These interviews require no interpretation. They plainly state that a majority of the members of your committee, without waiting to make a formal report, voluntarily rushed into print to render a decision and to pronounce judgement before a single witness for the defense was heard and before one syllable of rebutting testimony was offered.

"I submit that you have prejudged my evidence. You have passed on its character and sufficiently without having heard it, for, while you do not specifically mention my name, yet you have privately determined and publicly announced that Mulhall has

EXPECT TO HAVE BANNER FAIR

Officers Believe Fifty-Seventh Annual Will Surpass Any Ever Held in Rush County.

MANY CONCESSIONS SECURED.

Association Offers Special Inducements to Live Stock Exhibitors. Fine Races Promised.

For the fifty-seventh time the Rush county fair will be held. This year the fair comes the last week in August and from all indications will be the largest in the history of the association. The directors are working with this in view and believe that all other years will be surpassed. With proper support the fair this year should be the banner one, and already the men in charge are busy completing the arrangements, such as getting the track in shape for the races and securing concessions.

The fair one of the best advertisements for the city and county, as the products of the county and city are brought to the attention of the people. This year the educational department will be one of the features. The display of tools, implements and machinery of the latest design will be "played up" by the men in charge, and the exhibit will surpass anything yet shown at the Rush county fair.

The officers have made a special effort this year in the live stock department to increase the exhibition. As a special inducement they have offered free stalls and straw to all animals entered and shown. This should attract many more entries than heretofore. It is thought by doing this that the live stock raisers will be attracted and should appreciate the efforts of the men in charge. The premium list has been revised and the premiums made larger and more complete in every detail.

The program will be full of exciting races. Last year the fair had the best racing in the history of the association, and it is even possible to better it this year. Prospects are good for a large field of horses. The grounds are fast filling up with concessions and the association could admit many more but desire only clean, moral shows and will not let any on the grounds but the best. This policy has been followed for years and will continue to be in effect.

The association has arranged for special music each day and a good free attraction will be booked. The association has just put down a new deep well and the water supply will be excellent. The price of admission remains the same and tickets will be issued to all stock holders, and family tickets will soon be placed on sale.

BAPTISTS WILL MEET.

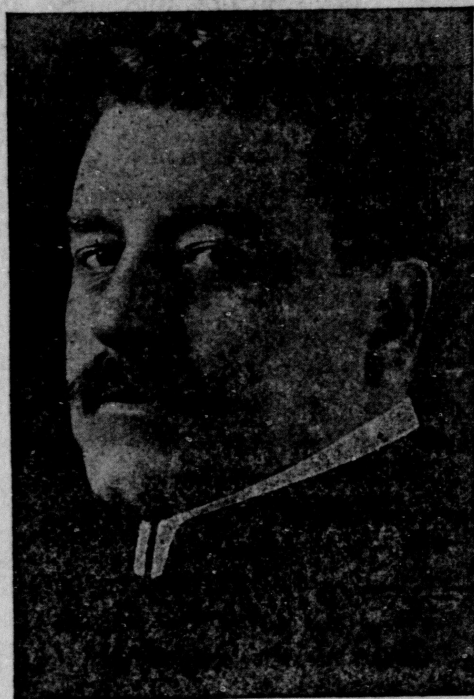

The Whitewater Primitive Baptist association will meet in the hundred and fourth annual session at the Second Williams Creek church in Fayette county about three miles east of Falmouth next Friday, Saturday and Sunday, August 9 and 10. Several ministers from a distance are expected to be present. The meeting is open to everyone.

AN HONEST INQUIRY.

Muncie Press: Mulhall now leaves the house of his friends and goes to the house of representatives where there is a sufficient sense of decency and fair play, fortunately, ensure an honest inquiry into his story.

J. H. Brecheisen has purchased the Wilson property at the corner of First and Morgan street and will take possession September 1.

IS NOT FINED FOR BEING GENTLEMAN

Grant Thayer, Knightsdown Horseman, is Released From Charge of Assault and Battery.

ECHO OF TRACTION CAR SCRAP

A charge of assault and battery against Grant Thayer, a well-known horseman of Knightsdown, was dismissed by Squire Koons' court Monday, says the Newcastle Courier. The affidavit against Thayer was filed by Elmer and Sidney Sorrel, brothers, of Dunreith.

The three men were passengers on the T. H. I. & E. interurban which left Newcastle at 11:20 p. m. Saturday a week ago. The two Sorrel brothers, according to witnesses, were intoxicated and were taking up a double seat in the car. Thayer saw a young woman standing and asked one of the brothers to turn over the seat and allow her to sit down. An argument ensued in which Thayer was assaulted by the two brothers. He received a blow on the head from a hammer in the hands of one of the two and medical attention was necessary.

The Sorrel brothers were arrested last Monday and each pleaded guilty to assault and battery charges and paid fines. Because it was learned that Thayer was doing just what any other gentleman would have done under the circumstances, the case against him was dismissed.

FESTIVAL IN THE BALANCE

Majority of Milroy Citizens, However, Want Fall Event.

No decision has been reached at Milroy whether the annual fall festival will be held this year. The majority of the people of the community are believed to favor the annual event although a few citizens are said to be opposed to the festival. It is believed that eventually according to some Milroy people, the committee to take charge of the affair will be appointed and the festival will be held the same as usual. The festival has always been a very enjoyable affair and a pleasant diversion and many Milroy people do not are to lose it.

A marriage license was issued this morning to Dr. Charles Smullen of Raleigh and Miss Bertha May Bunker.

The Farmers National bank of Wilkinson, Ind., has filed suit on a note against Joseph E. Hardin, J. B. Hardin and Cecil V. Morris, demanding $250.

GEORGE CRANE IS KNOWN HERE

Former Rush County Man is Deputized by Ralston to Investigate Conditions at Terre Haute.

BORN AND REARED IN MILROY

Taught School in Rush County for Several Years Before Taking up the Study of Law.

George M. Crane, of Terre Haute, who is acting as friend and adviser to Governor Ralston during his controversy concerning law enforcement at Terre Haute, is a native of Rush county and has many friends and personal acquaintances here. He was born and reared in Milroy and was the son of the late Isaac Crane. His mother still lives in Milroy. Mr. Crane formerly taught school in Rush county.

Governor Ralston yesterday deputized Mr. Crane to ascertain the facts with regard to the laxity of law enforcement at Terre Haute. Governor Ralston yesterday assured Mr. Crane that any movement on the part of Terre Haute citizens to form local organizations to combat lawless conditions there would be met with a hearty response by the Governor. Both his moral support to any such movement and any legal support he may be able to give will be forthcoming, the Governor said.

Mr. Crane told him that conditions at Terre Haute always have been bad, but that they have lately been growing from bad to worse. He intimated that every one knows who is to blame, and that there was no need to make the names of such persons public.

Mr. Crane told the Governor that there always has been a sentiment for a "clean house" at Terre Haute among the class of citizens which he believes outnumbers by nine to one those in favor of brewery control. That these men never have organized to bolt out the gang control is the secret of the present conditions.

Crane was the special judge who was sitting in the trial of George McDonald at Terre Haute some time ago when McDonald opened fire in the courtroom at the prosecutor and others, killing the chief of detectives.

JOHN LIND LENT TO MEXICO CITY

President Emphasizes His Policy Toward Huerta.

AMBASSADOR WILSON LET OUT

Former Governor of Minnesota, an "Original Bryan Man," Has Been entrusted With the Delicate Task of Representing This Government in Negotiations Looking to a Truce in Mexico's Civil War.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Full indication of President Wilson's policy of mediation with respect to Mexico was announced when Secretary of State Bryan made public the fact that former Governor John Lind of Minnesota had left Washington for Mexico City, where he will be the personal representative of the president and adviser to the American embassy.

To Mr. Lind the president has entrusted the task of trying to induce the federal government and the representatives of the rebels temporarily to lay aside their differences, pending an election in Mexico, with the understanding that the United States will recognize the government which thus may be brought into being. While the formal statement given out by Mr. Bryan did not contain any information as to Mr. Lind's instructions, upon information gained from other sources it can be said that the above is the administration's program. Mr. Bryan's statement said that when the president is ready to communicate with the Mexican authorities as to the restoration of peace he will make public his views.

This announcement, which represents all that the administration is willing to tell the country regarding its Mexican policy at this time, followed closely upon the heels of the acceptance of the resignation of Henry Lane Wilson as ambassador to Mexico. Mr. Lind virtually takes the place in the embassy at Mexico City made vacant by the dismissal of Ambassador Wilson.

Mr. Wilson has been held on waiting orders by the department of state, and on Aug. 14 will enter upon a status of leave of absence which will continue until Oct. 14, when his resignation will become effective. The administration has forbidden him to go to Mexico City to adjust his personal affairs between now and Oct. 14. The reason for this is that it is known that should Mr. Wilson return to Mexico City, even as a private citizen, there would result a demonstration in his honor in which Americans, Mexicans and foreigners would participate. The ambassador himself informed the state department that he thought because of the certainty of occurrences which would be disagreeable to the present administration at Washington, he ought not to go back to Mexico City.

The man the president has selected as his special representative in Mexico is a Swede. He served in the house of representatives on the Republican side at the same time Bryan was occupying a seat on the Democratic side. In 1896 Lind went over to the Bryan cause as a "silver Republican," and since then has been known as "an original Bryan man." Mr. Lind is known as a fine gentleman, but his qualifications for dealing with the most difficult Latin American situation this country ever faced, are not exactly known. He knows no Spanish whatever, and so far as known never has had any experience with the peculiar Latin American temperament or foreign relations in any particular. Mrs. Lind accompanies him on his mission.

It is understood to be the plan of the administration to make its offer of good offices to the Mexicans publicly, so that the whole world may know what is going on. It apparently is hoped that the Mexican factions will hesitate to bear the onus of the consequences which would follow a refusal to settle their internal differences amicably, or at least avail themselves of the president's good offices.

Should Mexico refuse, however, there will be no armed intervention in that country by the United States. This the administration has taken as the fundamental of its policy toward Mexico. Instead, in the event of failure of the mediation program, the president, it is believed, will lift the embargo on arms and ammunition and thus invite the Mexicans to fight it out until they weary of it. It is admitted that this would amount to virtual abandonment of American interests in Mexico.

The course adopted by President Wilson is wholly unprecedented in American diplomatic history so far as could be learned here. It is exclusively the policy of the president and Secretary of State Bryan, no one having been taken into their confidence. John Bassett Moore, the veteran diplomatist and world-wide authority whom the president insisted should accept the office of counselor of the department of state and diplomatic adviser of the government, was not consulted about the plan of sending Lind to Mexico. It was learned authoritatively that Mr. Moore is far from being in sympathy with the project and that his views coincide with those of Ambassador Wilson, which were rejected by the president.

ED STALEY

Secretary of State Republican
Committee Is Going to Leave.

Tipton, Ind., Aug. 5.—Ed Staley, secretary of the state Republican committee, upon his return here from Fargo, N. D., announced his intention of leaving Indiana to live permanently in that city. He will return to Fargo in a few days and become identified with a publishing house.

PRISON TERMS FOR VENAL LEGISLATORS

West Virginia Boodlers Receive Punishment.

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 5.—In the circuit court at Webster Springs five members of the West Virginia legislature have been sentenced by Judge W. S. O'Brien, having been convicted of bribery in connection with the election of United States senator at the session of the legislature here in February. S. U. G. Rhodes, Rath Duff and H. W. Asbury, members of the house of delegates, were given six years in the penitentiary. State Senator B. A. Smith got five years and six months, and Delegate David Hill five years. In addition the five men are disqualified for life from holding any public office.

The five legislators with two others were trapped by Prosecutor Townsend, aided by detectives, after William Seymour Edwards, one of the candidates for United States senator, had notified the prosecutor that Rhodes had made overtures to Edwards's agents for the sale of five votes for Edwards at $6,000 each, Rhodes to receive a big bonus. Prosecutor Townsend, together with detectives, local officials and newspaper men as witnesses, formed a trap and each of the seven legislators were arrested one after the other in the presence of prominent men as witnesses, in a hotel room, as fast as they came in after being paid in another room. All the money, which was marked, was taken from them. The trial was bitterly contested.

It is reported that Great Britain is to revive extensively her naval station at Bermuda.

The gypsies have passed under a variety of names, arising either from their supposed original country or the callings and characteristics of the race. The old English Egyptian, the Spanish Gitanos and the Magyar Pharas nepek (Pharaoh's people) all point to an Egyptian origin. The Scandinavian Tatars identify them with the Mongolian hordes which terrorized early Europe, while the French Bohemian suggests yet another country as their cradle.

As to the names bestowed by their supposed character, the Arab boldly calls them harami (a villain), the Dutchman heydens, or heathens, and the Persian takes his name from their complexion and dubs them karachi, or swarthy. A charter of William the Lion, as early as the twelfth century, mentions their Scotch name of tinklers, which is commonly supposed to be a corruption of tinker, although possibly the substitution of "t" for "z" has produced this form of the Italian zingaro, one of the most widespread of gypsy appellations.—London Spectator.

The Moth and the Candle.

It is not because the moth is light hearted, heedless and utterly frivolous, as we have always been told, that it plunges headlong into the flame, but because of the way that its body is constructed, says Kaempfert, the well known student of physical science. There are two symmetrical points, exactly alike chemically, on the moth's body—namely, its eyes. If the rays of light modify the chemical conditions of one side more than the other then the moth's power of movement is affected. There is a stronger muscular tension on one side than on the other, and the moth is forced to move toward the source of light. If, however, one of the eyes is removed the chemical symmetry is destroyed and instead of plunging into the flame it moves about in a circle. There are other animals and insects besides the moth which are hopelessly in the grip of light. If a snail is placed between a white wall and a black wall the unequal lighting forces it to crawl in a circle.—Chicago Tribune.

CALLS BANKERS TO WASHINGTON

To Talk Over Means for Moving the Crops.

MR. M'ADOO IS IN EARNEST

Secretary of the Treasury Has Sent Out Invitations to Clearing House Associations in Fifty-Eight Representative Cities to Send Delegates to Washington to Discuss Best Means of Distributing That $50,000,000.

Washington, Aug. 5.—The treasury department, by direction of Secretary McAdoo, has sent telegrams to the presidents of the clearing house associations in fifty-eight cities in the west, south and on the Pacific coast, inviting the associations in these cities to send a representative or committee to discuss arrangements for the deposit of the $50,000,000 of government funds which the secretary has decided to make in these sections to facilitate the movement of the crops. The representatives from the south will confer with the secretary here Aug. 7, those from the west Aug. 8, and those from the Pacific coast on Aug. 14.

It was learned today that no policy had been fixed upon by Mr. McAdoo and his advisers for regulating the percentage of commercial paper which will be accepted as security for the new deposits. Assistant Secretary Williams said each application for deposits would be dealt with on its merits as far as the nature of the security tendered was concerned.

TOO QUICK WITH HIS GUN

Terre Haute Man Kills Landlady, Thinking She Was a Robber.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 5.—Otto Forman shot and killed Mackie Elder, housekeeper of the boarding house where he is a boarder. He said he thought she was a chicken thief, as he saw her moving about the yard. Forman and George Schrempf, coal miners, room together at the boarding house. Forman had several chickens in the chicken house, and says Schrempf awakened him and told him someone was moving about the chicken house. Forman and Schrempf are held by the police for further investigation.

PRISON SCHOOLS ON THE INCREASE

Many Penal Institutions Now Have Them.

HUMANITARIAN INFLUENCES.

Out of Fifty-five Prisons in the United States and Canada Reporting to the United States Bureau of Education Forty-four Have Day or Evening Schools—Better Libraries Needed.

That even prison life is yielding to modern humanitarian impulses is indicated in the number of prisons that are maintaining schools for the benefit of prisoners. Out of fifty-five prisons in the United States and Canada reporting to the United States bureau of education forty-four have schools. In thirty-three of these a civilian head teacher is in charge. Altogether there are twenty-seven evening schools, nineteen day schools and eight correspondence schools.

In arguing for schools in prisons Dr. A. C. Hill of the New York state education department, who has prepared a bulletin on the subject for the United States bureau of education, points out that there are three ways of handling a man whom the courts have pronounced unfit to remain in society: "First, he may be put to death at once; second, he may be slowly killed in a destructive environment, and, third, he may be placed in a favorable environment and restored to normal health, if possible."

Object of Prison Schools.

Prison schools represent an attempt to apply the last of these methods, according to Dr. Hill.

"Schools in prisons are the expression of the highest conception yet formed of the proper way to deal with men and women segregated from society for violating its laws," he says. "They are an outgrowth of the belief that the door of hope must never be closed to any human being. They stand for opportunity. They are humanity's offer of help to overcome the inertia and despair that settle down upon a man disgraced and deprived of his liberty."

Prison libraries form an important educational factor, and special attention is given to them in the bureau's bulletin. Dr. Hill notes that there is usually plenty of books, but that the quality of the reading matter is seldom satisfactory. He cites the opinion of H. H. Hart of the Russell Sage foundation that "not one prison in ten has a suitable selection of books. Most of them are composed of one-third unreadable books and one-third trash."

Better Methods Needed.

In this conclusion Dr. Hill urges that better methods and greater efficiency in character building are needed all along the line, back to the school and the home. He believes that "public effort should be directed more fully to providing the right kind of education for the thousands of neglected children whose environment is such as to make the development of bad and dangerous characters almost inevitable."

"The hopeful sign of the times is an aroused public sentiment that is demanding a full knowledge of the facts and a vigorous use of the best means of checking moral degeneracy at its source."

RUSH NEWS TO FARMER.

United States Agriculture Agents Are Mediums of Information.

Secretary Houston of the department of agriculture has announced that hereafter the department of agriculture will send a weekly letter to its 35,000 township and 2,800 county correspondents of the department giving the latest agricultural information of value to the farmer.

The letters will treat of crop conditions and prices, the discovery of new plant or animal pests, pure food decisions and those which affect users of irrigated lands and the national forests and any other work of the department which can benefit the farmer.

The letters are to be sent weekly so that the news may reach the farmers promptly. The Crop Reporter, a monthly publication which has been issued by the department for some years past, is to be discontinued. Secretary Houston having decided that it reached the farmers too late to be of any practical use.

As the correspondents who gather crop news are in constant contact with the farmers in their communities, the secretary decided they would be the best medium for the dissemination of the official weekly information.

PRESIDENT VETOES GIFT.

Halts Baltimore Plan For Bridal Present For Daughter.

President Wilson has frowned on a movement started in Baltimore to raise a fund for a wedding present for his daughter Jessie. J. P. Tumulty, his private secretary, has written to Mayor Preston of that city as follows:

"While the president deeply appreciates the generous spirit which prompted Mr. Nordenholz to make this contribution, he greatly prefers that no fund be raised for this purpose. Will you not be good enough to notify Mr. Nordenholz and also have proper announcements made to this effect in the newspapers in question?"

MYSTERY REVEALED BY DOUBLE TRAGEDY

Meyer Silverman's Pathetic Quest Ends at Grave.

Philadelphia, Aug. 5.—"King of white slavers" was the way Abraham Fink, who committed suicide in New York last Saturday after he had shot Rebecca Silverman, one of his victims, was known in this city. He left property here estimated at about $50,000.

Thirteen years ago, according to the story told here by acquaintances of Fink, he lured the Silverman girl away from her home. She was the daughter of Meyer Silverman, a wealthy manufacturer of Roxbury, Mass. Fink was then forty-three years old and the girl was but fourteen. For more than twelve years he drilled her in his trade—that of a white slaver. He compelled her to live in resorts in numerous cities.

Three months ago the Silverman woman eluded Fink and ran away. She was tired of the life. He followed her from city to city. On Saturday he met her by chance on Fifth avenue New York, and the tragedy followed. All the years the woman was in the clutches of Fink she was known as Viola Montner. She took this name in order to elude the detectives in the employ of her father, who spent nearly $10,000 in an effort to find her after Fink had lured her from home.

The local police declare that Fink had a string of resorts and was represented in every city between New York and Chicago, all through Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. His chief duty was to make his rounds regularly and collect his tolls.

Race Accident Toll Grows.
Cincinnati, Aug. 5.—The death of Mrs. Malinda Buchman of Covington, Ky., who was injured in the recent motordrome accident, has brought the list of fatalities up to ten. There are still two more victims in the hospital that the physicians say have little chance of recovery.

MUSIC AT STATE FAIR

Three Great Bands Will Give Popular Concerts During the Exposition.

One of the most popular diversions the state fair will, during the week of September 8, have to offer the people of rural Indiana will be programs by three large concert bands. People from the farms and smaller towns seldom have opportunity to hear bands of such magnitude as the fair offers, and this is the chief reason that music is made one of the dominating features of the Indiana exposition, while people from the larger towns and cities, like those from the country, never tire of this kind of music. The John C. Weber band, of Cincinnati, the Indianapolis Military band, each composed of forty trained musicians, and the Indianapolis Newsboys' band of fifty boys, will be heard every day of the fair in programs of popular, wholesome music.

The Weber band was not at the fair last year, but has been re-engaged because of numerous requests made by regular visitors who, by comparing it with other famous bands, have given the Weber organization of forty men first place in popularity. This band will appear at the fair in its old-time strength of numbers and talent and will bring a number of eminent instrumental soloists. The Weber band has a new singer this year—Miss Wilmine Hammann, soprano, who is expected to win much favor from those who hear her in the state fair coliseum each afternoon and evening. She has a magnificent voice, with the wide shouldered German opera singer's physique to support her vocal powers, and she is especially famous as a ballad singer.

The Indianapolis Military Band, the oldest band organization in the state, directed by H. W. Klausmann, will celebrate its silver jubilee at the Indiana fair, where it first played 25 years ago, and where it has an unbroken record for this period. It began its state fair career with a dozen men, the number being increased each year, and at the coming fair it will have forty men—the best musicians of Indiana. Mr. Klausmann is making extraordinary preparations for the state fair in celebration of the silver jubilee engagement there.

It will play in the coliseum each morning and at the grandstand each afternoon. Miss Anna Woodward, of Chicago, a soprano soloist who was applauded by thousands of patrons last year, will sing with the band again.

The Newsboys' Band, which has been heard by more Indiana people than any band that was ever organized in this state, will, as usual spend the entire week at the fair, giving morning and afternoon concerts near the administration building. The band was founded years ago by the Indianapolis News and its conductor from the beginning has been J. B. Vandaworker, doubtless the foremost trainer of juvenile bands in America.

The band now has over fifty members. This will be the band's 13th year at the state fair.—Adv.

Boyd, Indianapolis; grandstand, Charles W. Hickman, Lafayette; speed, Charles H. Anthony, Muncie; horses, Warren T. McCray, Kentland; cattle, Dan C. Reed, Attica; sheep, John L. ## HISTORY OF DAVIS CUP, WORLD TENNIS TROPHY.

England Leads in Number of Victories, With Australia Second.

With the final victory of Maurice E. McLoughlin of California over C. P. Dixon of England, concluding the international lawn tennis series, the famous Davis cup, emblematic of the world's team championship in lawn tennis, which has not visited the United States for a decade, returns again to these shores. The trophy, which was first played for in 1900, is a massive silver bowl and was the gift of Dwight F. Davis, who donated it with the idea of stimulating international competition in the court game. The success of the plan was assured from the beginning. During the fourteen years the cup has stood there have been twelve competitions. The United States and England and Australia have all in turn won and lost the prize, which has proved to be the most widely and frequently played for international trophy on record.

During 1900 and 1902 the United States team successfully defended the cup against the attack of the British isles players. In 1903 the Doherty brothers carried it away to England. During the next four years the United States and Australasian players led the sorties for the cup, and finally in 1907 the famous antipodean players Brookes and Wilding took the cup to Australia. There it stayed until last winter, when the English team, consisting of Parke, Dixon and Beamish, won it for the British isles.

In point of cup victories England still leads, for the British isles players have won the trophy five times, while Australia has been successful four times and the United States three. More than fifty tennis experts have competed in the various matches, some of them playing for several years. In point of seniority Larned and Brooks are tied with six years to their credit. The Dohertys and Wilding each played five years, while Holcombe Ward and Beals Wright competed four times. The United States has entered ten teams, England twelve, Australasia eight, France three, Belgium two and Germany, South Africa and Canada one each.

The tournament just ended has proved to be the greatest in the history of the trophy and included eight teams. Play began early in June, with Germany defeating France at Wiesbaden, four matches to one. Then the United States team won from the Australasians, four matches to one at New York. In England, Canada eliminated South Africa, three matches to one. Germany and Canada both fell before the United States players, and Belgium, which drew a bye, previously went down before the Canadians. In the final round the Dominion players failed to check the United States team's cup rush, and with the winning of the recent crucial match against the English cup defenders the trophy and championship return to America again.

MEADOW LARK LOVES BUGS.

Bird to Be Encouraged Because of Its Appetite For Insects.

Protect and encourage the meadow lark, for its principal diet consists of cotton boll and alfalfa weevils, grasshoppers and predaceous ground beetles, the department of agriculture has advised. While the bird, it is acknowledged, does some damage to sprouting grain, its value as a destroyer of injurious insects is shown to be far greater.

Furthermore, the department calls attention to the fact that the birds go most vigorously for the insects which are most abundant, thereby increasing their efficiency at the time of an insect outbreak.

Radium $2,400,000 an Ounce.

It is reported that the German emissaries who went to London seeking radium have now bought every available gram of the British supply, which is only an eighth of the quantity wanted. They paid cash down. The present price of radium is equivalent to $2,400,000 an ounce.

Knockers and Boosters.

The baseball ground is a great revealer of human temperature. In some towns the bleachers are friendly enough as long as the home team plays star ball. The moment anything goes wrong, the yell "Take him out" resounds. It is hard enough for a team to face a hostile crowd in a strange city. It is doubly worse when a player finds himself turned down at home for a single error.

In other towns, the baseball fans may criticize and knock after the game, but in the presence of the enemy they are invariably friendly to the home players. "Too bad, old man, better luck next time" makes a fellow feel like trying once more after a failure.

As in baseball, so in business. No town goes ahead much where a section of the home people stand one side and display the superiority of their intellects by criticising everything that is done. There are many places where almost every one that attempts some public enterprise is made to feel himself a fool. There are some people who enjoy the wagging of a free tongue better than a general advance in prosperity.

The Senate lobby investigating committee's unfairness has been manifest from the very beginning of the examination of Martin M. Mulhall, discharged lobbyist. Instead of acting as if they were attempting to get at the truth, the majority members of the committee have shielded this self-confessed corruptionist at every turn. Someone has said it was not an investigation, but a Spanish inquisition. This seems nearer the truth than any utterance yet. No one was allowed to reply to the mud-slinging of Mulhall, with the exception of a few senators and congressmen who forced themselves on the committee, until after the charges had been circulated all over the United States. James E. Watson took the right course when he withdrew his request to testify before the committee because the majority members made in plain in signed interviews that they had already passed judgement.

It is quite impossible to believe that the city council is willing to be responsible for the irresponsible management of the city water and light plant. Yet this is the attitude which must be taken by the taxpayers unless the council attempts to sift the recent bobbles to earth and find who is to blame and why or take some other action which will correct the present muddled condition. The people will hold the council responsible and not the people who are employed by the council. Undoubtedly something is expected from the governing body.

JESS PUGH IS APPRECIATED

The singing party needs no introduction to local chautauqua goers. The company won instant attention here last year and was so popular that arrangements were made for the singers to come back this year.

Benjamin Chapin, who gives the program this evening, stands foremost among the impersonators of the United States. Efforts have been made before this to get him on the local program. He makes Abraham Lincoln appear before the audience as no other man can.

Jess Pugh's appeal to local interest last night won him rounds and rounds of applause. It should be known, too, that two of the readings he gave, that of attending the motion picture show and the impersonation of the German farmer who was stranded with a broken automobile are original with him. He introduced local characters which made the readings all the more realistic.

The program was opened with a duet, "When Nightly We Kiss Each Other," by Mr. Pugh and Miss Briggs. The encore was a humorous number and Mr. Pugh then gave a group of character poems. The Harry Lauder imitation by Mr. Pugh, which was closed with a duet by Mr. Pugh and Miss Martha Hogsett of this city, the accompanist, was such a hit that the audience insisted on more and Miss Hogsett, Miss Briggs and Mr. Pugh sang a trio which was equally as popular.

Rushville people were delighted to see Miss Hogsett at the piano. She is recognized as a finished artist on the piano and her many friends here are very much pleased to see her ability recognized. Her playing as well as her beautiful voice added much to the concert last night.

Miss Parsons won more applause with her first violin solo last night than greeted her at any other appearance here. She responded with the same number as an encore. Miss Briggs sang "Fleeting Days" and gave a second number when the crowd applauded so vigorously. Jess Pugh gave a reading from "The Light That Failed," by Kipling, in which he reached the most dramatic situations perfectly. Mr. Pugh and Miss Briggs then sang "I Would That My Love," by Mendelssohn. Miss Parsons played another violin solo. Miss Briggs sang "The Venetian Love Song" which indicated the true quality of her excellent voice more than any other thing she chose for the program.

Then followed in quick succession some of Mr. Pugh's humorous numbers in which he excels. His depiction of the German farmer who is stranded on the road with a broken automobile and the farmer's talk with the "garbage" man over the telephone kept the audience convulsed in laughter. The reading of the incidents attending local motion picture, in which Mr. Pugh mentioned many local people that made it especially good, was received by the audience with loud applause, applause that was deafening between conclusions of laughter. He was not allowed to stop with that and imitated the young student of elocution who had a habit waving his handkerchief while reciting. His friends put some snuff on his handkerchief and the results are easily imagined.

Dr. Wirt Lowther, the platform manager for the first three days, made his initial appearance at the chautauqua yesterday afternoon. He has a large smiling countenance and an expansive girth. He fairly vibrated with good humor and the people felt like they would enjoy his three day's stay here.

He made a few desultory remarks at the outset, paying a few compliments to the Rushville chautauqua and the spirit that had been manifest since his arrival in Rushville. He said that all of the programs would not please all of the people because all of the people were not alike, but that the management had attempted to get a little to please all classes of people. He asked that when a person found something he or she did not like, not to knock but to find some enjoyment in the fact that other people enjoyed it. He asked that the motto be, boost and don't knock. If you have any knocking to do, he continued, knock to me because I'm used to it.

Dr. Lowther lectured yesterday afternoon on the subject, "The Art of Seeing." He said there were just two classes of people in the world: those who can see things clearly and are able to describe them so other people can understand and those who can't. Dr. Lowther fairly bulged with adjectives. He made a stirring plea for the blind and pictured many beautiful things which they are missing.

He related an incident he observed while sight seeing in California. He noted two women viewing a portion of the landscape. Dr. Lowther described the scene profusely. The best one woman could say was that it was pretty. The other woman, whom he described as highly emotional and perfectly in tune with such surroundings, exclaimed "O God!" in her ecstasy and quivered with emotion. This gave him the idea for the lecture, "The Art of Seeing."

After he was gathering data for the lecture, Dr. Lowther said, he was viewing a cataract in Yellowstone park and members of the party were commenting on the scene. One man, he said, had been silent from the first and he was wondering what that man's opinions might be. Dr. Lowther questioned him. The man contemplated the scene and then exclaimed:

"Gee, I was thinking how that would run a saw mill."

He told other stories to illustrate how people see things so differently. He explained the three forms of sight: The simplest form, the compound eyesight and that possessed by members of the vertebra family.

He pointed out the defects. Dr. Lowther said that four percent of the people were color blind and that a little less than three per cent. of this number were men. He said that might be the reason why women were so much more proficient, especially in selecting husbands. Dr. Lowther of near sightedness, stigmatism and explained how to detect the blind spot.

"Doubtless lots of you people did not know you were carrying around a blind spot," he continued. "But you may have a blind spot in other places. There may be a blind spot on your soul, your mind or your conscience. Isn't it strange sometimes when there is a clear question of right and wrong your neighbor can't see it? He has a blind spot some place. He is unable to distinguish."

Jess Pugh and company gave the prelude again yesterday afternoon and was very enthusiastically received. The readings of Mr. Pugh were applauded again and again.

WATSON WILL NOT TESTIFY

made his case and as one of your members states, even if the association can show that Mulhall perjured himself, the organization is then left in a bad way. I have no connection with the 'organization,' but the statements make it clear that, even if I were to prove Mulhall to be a perjurer, yet my case would not be helped, for you yourselves have said so, and in saying so have already rendered the verdict and have pronounced the judgement.

"Therefore, senators, it would in my judgment, be farcial for me to appear before your committee to give testimony in this case, for, no matter what my evidence might be, you have so strongly foreshadowed your report and so unerringly forecast your decision that I could not hope to change either or to make any impression whatever upon your minds.

"The only object I could possibly have in testifying would be to give your committee my side of the case, my version of the story with a view to securing a favorable consideration of my testimony and a favorable finding at your hands; but, where the finding has already been made, and where it is announced that the case has already been determined and that, in substance, no matter what evidence may be adduced in rebuttal, it can not avail to influence the minds of the committee and can not possibly alter the predetermined decision, then for me to testify under such conditions, would surely be flying against the wind, would indeed be worse than useless.

"I much prefer to take my case to another tribunal, where I hope and believe the law will be impartially administered and the evidence impartially weighed, and where the jury will refrain from coming to any conclusion until all the evidence shall have been heard.

"Therefore, senators, without intending any discourtesy, much less offense, to the members of your committee, either individually or collectively, I respectfully withdraw my request to appear before your committee at this time. Very truly yours, JAMES E. WATSON.

At the same time he sent this letter to Chairman Overman, Mr. Watson made application to be heard before the House lobby probe committee, in the following letter to Representative Garrett, its chairman.

"My Dear Congressman: For reasons that I think justify my course, I have this day written a letter to the Hon. Lee S. Overman, chairman of the lobby investigating committee of the Senate, withdrawing my request to appear before that body to testify before that body in answer to Mulhall.

"It is my earnest desire to appear before the House committee and I am writing this to you for the purpose of notifying you that I shall be pleased to come to Washington for that purpose whenever you require my attendance.

"I have been here now for four weeks and have suffered severe financial loss because of my absence from home and my failure to fill my chautauqua engagements. Therefore, I shall thank you to notify me just when you can use me, sending a wire for that purpose to Rushville, Ind., my residence, and it will be my pleasure to come on at the time indicated.

"Believing that this request is fair and that the desire of your committee is to do justice to all persons concerned, I am,

"Very sincerely yours,
JAMES E. WATSON."

Mr. Watson will leave at once for Shelbyville, Ill., where he will hit the chautauqua circuit again Thursday.

"I have been making a little calculation," said he, "and I find that I have lost more by missing the chautauqua engagements I have been obliged to cancel than the entire amount paid to me under my employment in working for a tariff commission."

Peanuts and pink lemonade will soon be ripe, and odor of sawdust and tanbark will permeate the air. The Hagenbeck-Wallace Shows Combined, gayest, grandest, gladdest, galaxy in all the wide world is coming to Rushville, Friday, August 15, for two performances. This year the big show, in reality there are two shows, will come aboard three special trains, the longest ever used to transport a circus aggregation.

The country for miles around is all aglow with the noisy circus bills of purple and gold, and the downtown billboards are the Mecca upon which thousands of eyes feast their gaze. Father Time is always on the job, scenes come and go, but somehow or another, the circus is just the circus and its popularity never wanes. The joys and memories of circus day keeps a steady hold upon the heart strings of the American people.

All through the long months of winter agents of the Hagenbeck-Wallace Shows have been scouring the continents of the earth securing novelties and features. The performance this year will be entirely new. Three hundred acrobats, gymnasts, riders, contortionists and athletes, together with fifty clowns compose the circus end, in addition the big show is augmented with Carl Hagenbeck's trained wild animal exhibition. Hundreds of wild animals, lions, leopards, tigers, pumas, jaguars, elephants, seals, monkeys, etc., will constitute that department.

Performances will be given at 2 and 8 p. m. Doors to the zoological paradise will be opened an hour earlier. A two mile long street parade will leave the show grounds at 10 o'clock the day of the exhibition and will pass through the principal downtown streets.

CHAPTER X.

"My father died when I was only a young girl. We had not much money, and my mother's older brother took us to his home to live. My mother was his youngest sister, and he loved her more than any one else living. There was another sister, a half-sister, much older than my mother, and she had one son. He was a sulky, handsome boy, with a selfish, cruel nature. He seemed to be happy only when he was tormenting some one. He used to come to Uncle's to visit when I was there, and he delighted in annoying me. He stretched barbed wire where he knew I was going to pass in the dark, to throw me down and tear my clothes. He threw a quantity of burrs in my hair, and once he led me into a hornet's nest. After we went to live at my uncle's, Richard was not there so much. He had displeased my uncle, and he sent him away to school; but at vacation times he came again, and kept the house in discomfort. He seemed always to have a special spite against me. Once he broke a rare Dresden vase that Uncle prized, and told him I had done it.

Mother did not live long after Father died, and after she was gone, I had no one to stand between me and Richard. Sometimes I had to tell my Uncle, but oftener I tried to bear it, because I knew Richard was already a great distress to him.

"At last Richard was expelled from college, and Uncle was so angry with him that he told him he would do nothing more for him. He must go to work. Richard's father and mother had not much money, and there were other children to support. Richard threatened me with all sorts of awful things if I did not coax Uncle to take him back into his good graces again. I told him I would not say a word to Uncle. He was very angry and swore at me. When I tried to leave the room he locked the door and would not let me go until I screamed for help. Then he almost choked me, but when he heard Uncle coming he jumped out of the window. The next day he forged a check in my Uncle's name, and tried to throw suspicion on me, but he was discovered, and my uncle disinherited him. Uncle had intended to educate Richard and start him well in life, but now he would have nothing further to do with him. It seemed to work upon my uncle's health, all the disgrace to the family name, although no one ever thought of my uncle in connection with blame. As he paid Richard's debts, it was not known what the boy had done, except by the banker, who was a personal friend.

"We went abroad then, and everywhere Uncle amused himself by putting me under the best music masters, and giving me all possible advantages in languages, literature, and art. Three years ago he died at Carlsbad, and after his death I went back to my music studies, following his wishes in the matter, and staying with a dear old lady in Vienna, who had been kind to us when we were there before.

"As soon as my uncle's death was known at home, Richard wrote the most pathetic letter to me, professing deep contrition, and saying he could never forgive himself for having quarreled with his dear uncle. He had a sad tale of how the business that he had started had failed and left him with debts. If he had only a few hundred dollars, he could go on with it and pay off everything. He said I had inherited all that would have been his if he had done right, and he recognized the justice of it, but begged that I would lend him a small sum until he could get on his feet, when he would repay me.

"I had little faith in his reformation, but felt as if I could not refuse him when I was enjoying what might have been his, so I sent him all the money I had at hand. As I was not yet of age, I could not control all the property, but my allowance was liberal. Richard continued to send me voluminous letters, telling of his changed life, and finally asked me to marry him. I declined emphatically, but he continued to write for money, always ending with a statement of his undying affection. In disgust, I at last offered to send him a certain sum of money regularly if he would stop writing to me on this subject, and finally succeeded in reducing our correspondence to a check account. This has been going on for three years, except that he has been constantly asking for larger sums, and whenever I would say that I could not spare more just then he would begin telling me how much he cared for me, and how hard it was for him to be separated from me. I began to feel desperate about him, and made up my mind that when I received the inheritance I should ask the lawyers to make some arrangement with him by which I should no longer be annoyed.

"It was necessary for me to return to America when I came of age, in order to sign certain papers and take full charge of the property. Richard knew this. He seems to have had some way of finding out everything my Uncle did.

"He wrote telling me of a dear friend of his mother, who was soon to pass through Vienna, and who by some misfortune had been deprived of a position as companion and chaperon to a young girl who was traveling. He said it had occurred to him that perhaps he could serve us both by suggesting to me that she be my traveling companion on the voyage. He knew I would not want to travel alone, and he sent her address and all sorts of credentials, with a message from his mother that she would feel perfectly safe about me if I went in this woman's guardianship.

"I really did need a traveling companion, of course, having failed to get my dear old lady to undertake the voyage, so I thought it could do no harm. I went to see her, and found her pretty and frail and sad. She made a piteous appeal to me, and though I was not greatly taken with her, I decided she would do as well as any one for a companion.

"She did not bother me during the voyage, but fluttered about and was quite popular on board, especially with a tall, disagreeable man with a cruel jaw and small eyes, who always made me feel as if he would gloat over any one in his power. I found out that he was a physician, a specialist in mental diseases, so Mrs. Chambray told me, and she talked a great deal about his skill and insight into such maladies.

"At New York my cousin Richard met us and literally took possession of us. Without my knowledge, the cruel-looking doctor was included in the party. I did not discover it until we were on the train, bound, as I supposed, for my old home just beyond Buffalo. It was some time since I had been in New York, and I naturally did not notice much which way we were going. The fact was, every plan was anticipated, and I was told that all arrangements had been made. Mrs. Chambray began to treat me like a little child and say: 'You see, we are going to take good care of you, dear, so don't worry about a thing.'

"I had taken the drawing-room compartment, not so much because I had a headache, as I told them, as because I wanted to get away from their society. My cousin's marked devotion became painful to me. Then, too, the attentions and constant watchfulness of the disagreeable doctor became most distasteful.

"We had been sitting on the observation platform, and it was late in the afternoon, when I said I was going to lie down, and the two men got up to go into the smoker. In spite of my protests, Mrs. Chambray insisted upon following me in, to see that I was perfectly comfortable. She fussed around me, covering me up and offering smelling salts and eau de cologne for my head. I let her fuss, thinking that was the quickest way to get rid of her. I closed my eyes, and she said she would go out to the observation platform. I lay still for awhile, thinking about her and how much I wanted to get rid of her. She acted as if she had been engaged to stay with me forever, and it suddenly became very plain to me that I ought to have a talk with her and tell her that I should need her services no longer after this journey was over. It might make a difference to her if she knew it at once, and perhaps now would be as good a time to talk as any, for she was probably alone out on the platform. I got up and made a few little changes in my dress, for it would soon be time to go into the dining-car. Then I went out to the observation platform, but she was not there. The chairs were all empty, so I chose the one next to the railing, away from the car door, and sat down to wait for her, thinking we would soon be back.

"We were going so fast, through a pretty bit of country. It was dusky and restful out there, so I leaned back and closed my eyes. Presently I heard voices approaching, above the rumble of the train, and, peeping around the doorway, I saw Mrs. Chambray, Richard, and the doctor coming from the other car. I kept quiet, hoping they would not come out, and they did not. They settled down near the door, and ordered the porter to put up a table for them to play cards.

"The train began to slow down, and finally came to halt for a longer time on a sidetrack, waiting for another train to pass. I heard Richard ask where I was. Mrs. Chambray said laughingly that I was safely asleep. Then, before I realized it, they began to talk about me. It happened there were no other passengers in the car. Richard asked Mrs. Chambray if she thought I had any suspicion that I was not on the right train, and she said, 'Not the slightest,' and then by degrees there floated to me through the open door the most diabolical plot I had ever heard of. I gathered from it that we were on the way to Philadelphia, would reach there in a little while, and would then proceed to a place near Washington, where the doctor had a private insane asylum, and where I was to be shut up. They were going to administer some drug that would make me unconscious when I was taken off the train. If they could not get me to take it for the headache I had talked about, Mrs. Chambray was to manage to get it into my food or give it to me when asleep. Mrs. Chambray, it seems, had not known the entire plot before leaving Europe, and this was their first chance of telling her. They thought I was safely in my compartment, asleep, and she had gone into the other car to give the signal as soon as she thought she had me where I would not get up again for a while.

"They had arranged every detail. Richard had been using as models the letters I had written him for the last three years, and had constructed a set of love letters from me to him, in perfect imitation of my handwriting. They compared the letters and read snatches of the sentences aloud. The letters referred constantly to our being married as soon as I should return from abroad, and some of them spoke of the money as belonging to us both, and that now it would come to its own without any further trouble.

"They even exhibited a marriage certificate, which, from what they said, must have been made out with our names, and Mrs. Chambray and the doctor signed their names as witnesses. As nearly as I could make out, they were going to use this as evidence that Richard was my husband, that he had the right to administer my estate during the time that I was incapable. They had even arranged that a young woman who was hopelessly insane should take my place when the executors of the estate came to see me, if they took the trouble to do that. As it was some years since either of them had seen me, they could easily have been deceived. And for their help Mrs. Chambray and the doctor were to receive a handsome sum.

"I could scarcely believe my ears at first. It seemed to me that I must be mistaken, that they could not be talking about me. But my name was mentioned again and again, and as each link in the horrible plot was made plain to me, my terror grew so great that I was on the verge of rushing into the car and calling for the conductor and porter to help me. But something held me still, and I heard Richard say that he had just informed the trainmen that I was insane, and that they need not be surprised if I had to be restrained. He had told them that I was comparatively harmless, but he had no doubt that the conductor had whispered it to our fellow-passengers in the car, which explained their prolonged absence in the smoker. Then they all laughed, and it seemed to me that the cover of the bottomless pit was open and that I was falling in.

"I sat still, hardly daring to breathe. Then I began to go over the story bit by bit, and to put together little things that had happened since we landed, and even before I had left Vienna; and I saw that I was caught in a trap. It would be no use to appeal to any one, for no one would believe me. I looked wildly out at the ground and had desperate thoughts of climbing over the rail and jumping from the train. Death would be better than what I should soon have to face. My prosecutors had even told how they had deceived my friends at home by sending telegrams of my mental condition, and of the necessity for putting me into an asylum. There would be no hope of appealing to them for help. The only witnesses to my sanity were far away in Vienna, and how could I reach them if I were in Richard's power?

Went to the Matron and Told Her.

"I watched the names of the stations as they flew by, but it gradually grew dark, and I could hardly make them out. I thought one looked like the name of a Philadelphia suburb, but I could not be sure.

"I was freezing with horror and with cold, but did not dare to move, lest I attract their attention.

"We began to rush past rows of houses, and I knew we were approaching a city. Then, suddenly, the train slowed down and stopped, with very little warning, as if it intended to halt only a second and then hurry on.

"There was a platform on one side of the train, but we were out beyond the carshed, for our train was long. I could not climb over the rail to the platform, for I was sitting on the side away from the station, and would have had to pass the car door in order to do so. I should be sure to be seen.

"On the other side were a great many tracks separated by strong picket fences as high as the car platform and close to the trains, and they reached as far as I could see in either direction. I had no time to think, and there was nothing I could do but climb over the rail and get across those tracks and fences somehow.

"My hand were so cold and trembling that I could scarcely hold on to the rail as I jumped over.

LOBBY INVESTIGATORS SUBJECTS OF PROTEST

Charges of Prejudging Evidence Are Made.

Washington, Aug. 5.—The U. S. senate's lobby investigation committee listened to a few choice words of criticism of its own majority members from no less than three sources. Former Representative James E. Watson of Indiana, in a letter addressed to Chairman Overman, told the committee he would withdraw his request to appear before the committee for the very evident reason that the majority members of the committee, by their own statements, were convinced of the accuracy of Colonel M. M. Mulhall's testimony without ever having been called upon to listen to evidence in controversy of Mulhall's statements.

Attorney Robert McCarter, representing the N. A. M., took an opportunity to protest against what he termed the self-evident fact that the committee had prejudged the charges lodged against the N. A. M. Lastly James A. Emery, Washington counsel for the N. A. M., stung to anger by Senator Reed's production of some of his (Emery's) private correspondence, made an eloquent plea to the committee for fair play and likewise lodged the charge of prejudging evidence against the three Democratic senators.

The protests were based upon certain authorized interviews by Chairman Overman, Senator Reed and Senator Walsh, in which the senators took occasion to announce that although they did not countenance Mulhall as a man or a witness, nor did they accept as satisfactory evidence many of his statements even under oath, nevertheless the letters produced by Mulhall, in the opinion of the three committeemen, were convincing enough in matter and scope to justify all the claims as to "unprincipled conduct of the N. A. M."

Body Cut in Twain.

Logansport, Ind., Aug. 5.—James Merandy, one of the oldest freight conductors in point of service on the Pennsylvania railway, was instantly killed in the south yards. Merandy was coupling in the air when a cut of cars was thrown against the train. He was knocked down and the wheels passed across his body, cutting him in twain.

TO REDUCE FIRE LOSS IN INDIANA

Preventive Steps to Be Taken In Schools.

REGULAR COURSE OF LESSONS

Superintendent of Public Instruction. Acting in Conjunction With State Fire Marshal, Has Taken Steps to Have a Series of Several Model Lessons in Fire Prevention Taught in the Public Schools of the State.

Indianapolis, Aug. 5.—Charles A. Greathouse, state superintendent of public instruction, is lending a hand in the effort to reduce the fire loss in Indiana. The teacher's manual, which the department of public instruction has just sent to press, contains practical suggestions as to how teachers may spread the needs of fire protection in the schools.

In this effort Mr. Greathouse is being assisted by the state fire marshal, who has prepared several model lessons in fire prevention. In several states the teaching of fire prevention is compulsory. Although it is not required in Indiana, Mr. Greathouse believes the subject important enough to suggest that teachers may include such lessons voluntarily.

The subject is included under the heading of civics for fifth grade pupils. The preservation of health and property are both presented by the superintendent. The suggested lessons in fire prevention take up the various causes of fires, laying special emphasis on carelessness as a contributing factor. How to handle matches, the disposal of ashes, the danger from gasoline and similar matters are presented. It is the belief that by starting with the children, a general influence will be created which will open the eyes of the people to the tremendous loss which is suffered in property and lives each year because of carelessness.

The state fire marshal's department will issue a bulletin when the schools open in the fall regarding the necessity for fire drills. This bulletin will promulgate a set of rules and regulations for fire drills to be observed in all the schools in Indiana.

"DRYS" ENTER A PROTEST

Otter Creek Township Dispute Gets Into Commissioners' Court.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 5.—The Otter Creek township local option election controversy was taken up before the Vigo county commissioners this afternoon when a delegation of citizens from North Terre Haute appeared to file their certified petition contesting the result of the election.

They base their cause of action on the contention that more than 100 voters from the tenderloin of this city were taken to North Terre Haute to vote against the "drys." The commissioners announced that they would fix a date for hearing both sides of the case. As the matter stands the "wets" have a majority of five votes in the township.

A committee of Otter Creek township citizens, representing the newly organized law and order league of Vigo county, visited the Otter Creek township saloons and road houses that were open Sunday and requested the proprietors to close their places. Without argument all these places closed promptly after the request had been lodged with them.

The fight between the "wets" and "drys" of Pierson township, this county, which was to have come up for hearing before the county commissioners yesterday, was withdrawn by attorneys for the liquor interests after it became known that the remonstrators had a substantial majority. The principal towns situated in the township are Black Hawk and Lewis. Both have received considerable notoriety of late on account of the numerous "blind tigers" operating there and the frequent shootings and cutting scrapes that have occurred.

HE COULDN'T SAVE HIMSELF

Young Man Drowns After Rescuing Woman and Child.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 5.—Claude A. Jones, aged nineteen, a machinist, went down to heroic death in Eel river after saving the lives of Mrs. Charles Bechtel and her seven-year-old son Lloyd, at the Joseph Armstrong farm, two miles south of Eel River station. Jones was exhausted after holding up Mrs. Bechtel and her son for several minutes while Otis F. Hall swam out and rescued them one at a time.

Hall also saved the life of Roy Cary, a member of the rescue party, who fell from the bank into six feet of water, and was unable to swim. Hall afterward, near the point of exhaustion, made a desperate effort to save the life of Jones, but was unsuccessful.

Their Boat Upset.

Rochester, Ind., Aug. 5.—Tony Schaack of Chicago was drowned in Lake Manitou when a boat in which he and William Runnels were rowing upset. Neither man could swim, but Runnels held on to the boat until help came. Schaack was drowned within fifty feet of the shore.

SPECIAL WILL GO OVER L.E.&W.

Arrangements are Completed for a Train to Newcastle Sunday. Will Leave at 12:30.

TEAM WILL LOSE MURRAY.

Third Basement Unreasonable in Demands and Will Go to Indianapolis Reserves.

All arrangements for the baseball special to Newcastle Sunday have been completed and from all indications a crowd of 300 fans will accompany the team. The train will leave here over the L. E. & W. at 12:30 o'clock and returning will leave Newcastle at 6:30 o'clock. The regular fare will be charged and the train will stop at all stations.

The game at Newcastle is the big game of the year, for the Rushville team and the fans are confident that the team will take the Hoosiers this year. Newcastle will play a return game here August 24th. The special train will have five coaches and will accommodate all who desire to make the trip. Last year a large crowd went to Newcastle on both occasions and the management of the team believes that the interest this year is as great as last.

Newcastle has been playing the same consistent ball that the team showed last year, and the Arcadians will be up against a stiff proposition. With Romine in the box Rushville will have to go some to win. Last year Romine let the locals down easy and handed the team the worst defeat of the season. The team this year, however, does not think that he can repeat and will go there confident of winning. Practically the same line up will be used Sunday as last Sunday, when the Arcadians defeated the Y. M. I. team of Cincinnati. The Arcadians won the game in the ninth inning and the showing of the team shows that it has the right stuff.

The only change in the line up will be the third base. Rushville was unable to hold Murray. Murray was unreasonable in his demands and the team will have to do without him. Of course, the fans and the management hate to see him go, but there are just as good ball players as Murray, and a good man will be secured. Murray will play with the Indianapolis Reserves. He wanted the management here to pay him his salary rain or shine, and as this is something that the rest of the players are not getting, it was thought best not to set the precedent.

The fans thought that the team could not get along without Halterman, but so far the team has succeeded and will do so without the services of the speedy third baseman. The management offered Murray all the money he asked for to play here, but balked when it came to paying him whether he played or not, and if Andy Reinhart can afford to do this that is the place for Murray. The management has a line on a third baseman from Cincinnati. His name is Stark and he has been playing at Middletown, Ohio. Stark desires to get away from Middletown and comes highly recommended to Rushville. Manager Jordan, of the Y. M. I. team, stated that he was as fast as Murray and would make a valuable man for Rushville. It will be known tomorrow if he can come here. Good third basemen are hard to find, but one will be secured and the management promises to get a man the equal of Murray.

METHODISTS AND CHRISTIANS PLAY

Game Scheduled For Tomorrow Afternoon in Sunday School League—Both Confident.

FLATROCK HERE SATURDAY

The Methodists and Christians will play tomorrow afternoon in the Sunday school league. Both teams will present their best line up and the contest promise to be hard fought. The Christians by winning can jump into a tie with the Presbyterians for second place. The Methodists and Christians have played close games in the other two previous contests and both teams are confident of winning. Gunning will probably pitch for the Christians and may be opposed by Caldwell. The game will be called at four-fifteen o'clock. Saturday afternoon the Presbyterians and Flatrock teams will play their second game. The Presbyterians believe they can make a better showing than they did Saturday when the Flatrock team defeated them by the one-sided score of 18 to 5.

RUSHVILLE TO HEAR INNES' BEST

Famous Band Leader Prepares Programs of Intrinsic Merit For Two Concerts at Chautauqua.

SOLOISTS OF GREAT WORTH

Beatrice Van Loon, Famous Holland-Dutch Soprano, and Harpist of Note Will Play.

The Innes orchestral band, which comes to the chautauqua tomorrow for two full concerts, afternoon and evening, will give two elaborate programs, the equal of which the people of Rushville have never had the opportunity of hearing and which they may never have again.

I. J. Williams, harp soloist with the band, is the most accomplished performer on the harp in the country, and has been identified with the Innes Band so long that neither he, nor Mr. Innes remember when it first happened. Yet if you were to approach almost any of the Innes's men and inquire whether Mr. Williams was still with them, the chances are he would say he didn't know him and never heard of him. Mention the harp soloist and he would say "Oh, you mean Jimmie Wurlitzer. Yes, sure he's with us." When Mr. Williams made his professional debut as an artist he was in possession of a Wurlitzer harp to which he had been regularly and legally married for some years and to which he always referred in respectful tones as "Old Wurlitzer" and so it happened that he lost his identity in his instrument and his fellow bandsmen presently began to refer to him as Wurlitzer's Jimmie which in succeeding years was permanently corrupted to Jimmie Wurlitzer where it now stands. However aside from all this Mr. Williams is some harp player and has done more to popularize the instrument than any other one person.

He is to the harp what Paderevski is to the piano, a perfect exponent, and he has done more probably, to popularize the instrument than any other one man. He plays very few engagements that he is not sought after the performance by ladies—one or more—who want to know whether the instrument is complicated; whether it is difficult to learn; whether it taken long to learn; whether they are expensive and so on ad infinitum. Mr. Williams always courteously answers that the instrumental is very complicated to machinery but not difficult to learn to play, eight or ten lessons being usually sufficient to enable one to play quite satisfactorily. He adds that he has spent all his life studying the instrument and still studies, but says that for parlor amusement, a reasonably proficient person could produce results more quickly than on a piano and more satisfactorily. He frequently naively remarks that any charming woman looks twice as charming behind a harp as elsewhere and thereby he gains additional popularity. Mr. Williams will be heard here in his own composition "Reverie—Caprice."

Beatrice Van Loon, the famous Holland-Dutch soprano, who is the soloist with Innes' band, was born at The Hague and educated at Brussels, Dresden and Paris. She is the daughter of an American mother and commenced her musical career as a soloist on the violin.

The accompanying programs indicate the part Van Loon will have in the program. Patrons of the chautauqua are urged to cut these programs out and carry them to the concerts Wednesday. Here are the programs: Overture, Tannhauser—Wagner. (a) Marionet Dance, Op 52, No. 2—Glazounow. (b) Dance of the Flowers, from Nala—Debibes. Solo for Flute, Air and Variations—Demersmann Franklin. Carmen, Fantasy—Bizet. (a) West Virginia State Song—Innes. This song was awarded the prize of $1,000 offered by the State of West Virginia. It received its formal presentation at the Semi-Centennial Celebration of the admission of the state into the Union, at Wheeling, June 20th, 1913, upon which occasion it was given by a chorus of fifty thousand voices and twenty-seven bands, and has been officially adopted as The State Song of West Virginia. The words are by S. T. Kiser.

(b) Chorus of the Camorristi, from The Jewels of The Madonna—Wolf-Ferri.

Second Hungarian Rhapsody—Liszt. Song, (a) Mother Dear—Jefferson.

(b) My Laddie, Thayer—Beatrice Van Loon.

Anglo-American (Popular Fantasy)—Bastens-Innes. NIGHT.

Overture Mignon—Thomas.

(a) Menuet des Follets—Barloz.

(b) Intermezzo, from The Jewels of the Madonna—Wolf-Ferri.

Solo for Wurlitzer Harp, Reverie—Fantastic—Williams—H. J. Williams.

Trovatore Fantasy, Ending with the famous Miserere—Verdi.

(a) Waltz of the Flowers, from "The Nutcracker", Ballet—Tschaiowsky, (b) Love is King Two-Step March—Innes.

Fourteenth Hungarian Rhapsody—Liszt.

Aria for soprano, from Natoma. Springtime, Herbert—Beatrice Van Loon.

Overture, The Barber of Seville—Rossini.

NUMBER OF FIRES BELOW THE AVERAGE

Loss During Third Week in July is $547,481, Which Includes Indianapolis Fire.

The loss by fire in Indiana during the third week of July was $547,481, which included the wholesale district fire in Indianapolis. This was reported at $446,000, which left the loss in the rest of the state a little more than $100,000. There was a total of 131 fires which was considerably below the weekly average. Lightning again claimed a share of the responsibility, causing 27 fires with a total loss of $28,938. Of the 27 buildings struck by lightning, 24 are known to have been without lightning rods, while in the other 3 cases no report was made on this point.

Under the law the various assistants of the fire marshal throughout the state are required to report all fires within ten days after they occur, furnishing detailed information concerning the origin, loss and insurance. It is thus possible for the fire marshal's department to have comparatively accurate records up to within ten days of the current date.

LOBBY INVESTIGATORS SUBJECTS OF PROTEST

Charges of Prejudging Evidence Are Made.

Washington, Aug. 5.—The U. S. senate's lobby investigation committee listened to a few choice words of criticism from its own majority members from no less than three sources. Former Representative James E. Watson of Indiana, in a letter addressed to Chairman Overman, told the committee he would withdraw his request to appear before the committee for the very evident reason that the majority members of the committee, by their own statements, were convinced of the accuracy of Colonel M. M. Mulhall's testimony without ever having been called upon to listen to evidence in controversy of Mulhall's statements.

Attorney Robert McCarter, representing the N. A. M., took an opportunity to protest against what he termed the self-evident fact that the committee had prejudged the charges lodged against the N. A. M. Lastly James A. Emery, Washington counsel for the N. A. M., stung to anger by Senator Reed's production of some of his (Emery's) private correspondence, made an eloquent plea to the committee for fair play and likewise lodged the charge of prejudging evidence against the three Democratic senators.

The protests were based upon certain authorized interviews by Chairman Overman, Senator Reed and Senator Walsh, in which the senators took occasion to announce that although they did not countenance Mulhall as a man or a witness, nor did they accept as satisfactory evidence many of his statements even under oath, nevertheless the letters produced by Mulhall, in the opinion of the three committeemen, were convincing enough in matter and scope to justify all the claims as to "unprincipled conduct of the N. A. M."

TO REDUCE FIRE LOSS IN INDIANA

Preventive Steps to Be Taken in Schools.

REGULAR COURSE OF LESSONS

Superintendent of Public Instruction. Acting in Conjunction With State Fire Marshal, Has Taken Steps to Have a Series of Several Model Lessons in Fire Prevention Taught in the Public Schools of the State.

Indianapolis, Aug. 5.—Charles A. Greathouse, state superintendent of public instruction, is lending a hand in the effort to reduce the fire loss in Indiana. The teacher's manual, which the department of public instruction has just sent to press, contains practical suggestions as to how teachers may spread the needs of fire protection in the schools.

In this effort Mr. Greathouse is being assisted by the state fire marshal, who has prepared several model lessons in fire prevention. In several states the teaching of fire prevention is compulsory. Although it is not required in Indiana, Mr. Greathouse believes the subject important enough to suggest that teachers may include such lessons voluntarily.

The subject is included under the heading of civics for fifth grade pupils. The preservation of health and property are both presented by the superintendent. The suggested lessons in fire prevention take up the various causes of fires, laying special emphasis on carelessness as a contributing factor. How to handle matches, the disposal of ashes, the danger from gasoline and similar matters are presented. It is the belief that by starting with the children, a general influence will be created which will open the eyes of the people to the tremendous loss which is suffered in property and lives each year because of carelessness.

The state fire marshal's department will issue a bulletin when the schools open in the fall regarding the necessity for fire drills. This bulletin will promulgate a set of rules and regulations for fire drills to be observed in all the schools in Indiana.

"DRYS" ENTER A PROTEST

Otter Creek Township Dispute Gets Into Commissioners' Court.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 5.—The Otter Creek township local option election controversy was taken up before the Vigo county commissioners this afternoon when a delegation of citizens from North Terre Haute appeared to file their certified petition contesting the result of the election.

They base their cause of action on the contention that more than 100 voters from the tenderloin of this city were taken to North Terre Haute to vote against the "drys." The commissioners announced that they would fix a date for hearing both sides of the case. As the matter stands the "wets" have a majority of five votes in the township.

A committee of Otter Creek township citizens, representing the newly organized law and order league of Vigo county, visited the Otter Creek township saloons and road houses that were open Sunday and requested the proprietors to close their places. Without argument all these places closed promptly after the request had been lodged with them.

The fight between the "wets" and "drys" of Pierson township, this county, which was to have come up for hearing before the county commissioners yesterday, was withdrawn by attorneys for the liquor interests after it became known that the demonstrators had a substantial majority. The principal towns situated in the township are Black Hawk and Lewis. Both have received considerable notoriety of late on account of the numerous "blind tigers" operating there and the frequent shootings and cutting scrapes that have occurred.

HE COULDN'T SAVE HIMSELF

Young Man Drowns After Rescuing Woman and Child.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 5.—Claude A. Jones, aged nineteen, a machinist, went down to heroic death in Eel river after saving the lives of Mrs. Charles Bechtel and her seven-year-old son Lloyd, at the Joseph Armstrong farm, two miles south of Eel River station. Jones was exhausted after holding up Mrs. Bechtel and her son for several minutes while Otis F. Hall swam out and rescued them one at a time.

Hall also saved the life of Roy Cary, a member of the rescue party, who fell from the bank into six feet of water, and was unable to swim. Hall afterward, near the point of exhaustion, made a desperate effort to save the life of Jones, but was unsuccessful.

Their Boat Upset.

Rochester, Ind., Aug. 5.—Tony Schaack of Chicago was drowned in Lake Manitou when a boat in which he and William Rannels were rowing upset. Neither man could swim, but Rannels held on to the boat until help came. Schaack was drowned within fifty feet of the shore.

SPECIAL WILL GO OVER L.E.&W.

Arrangements are Completed for a Train to Newcastle Sunday. Will Leave at 12:30.

TEAM WILL LOSE MURRAY.

Third Basement Unreasonable in Demands and Will Go to Indianapolis Reserves.

All arrangements for the baseball special to Newcastle Sunday have been completed and from all indications a crowd of 300 fans will accompany the team. The train will leave here over the L. E. & W. at 12:30 o'clock and returning will leave Newcastle at 6:30 o'clock. The regular fare will be charged and the train will stop at all stations.

The game at Newcastle is the big game of the year, for the Rushville team and the fans are confident that the team will take the Hoosiers this year. Newcastle will play a return game here August 24th. The special train will have five coaches and will accommodate all who desire to make the trip. Last year a large crowd went to Newcastle on both occasions and the management of the team believes that the interest this year is as great as last.

Newcastle has been playing the same consistent ball that the team showed last year, and the Arcadians will be up against a stiff proposition. With Romine in the box Rushville will have to go some to win. Last year Romine let the locals down easy and handed the team the worst defeat of the season. The team this year, however, does not think that he can repeat and will go there confident of winning. Practically the same line up will be used Sunday as last Sunday, when the Arcadians defeated the Y. M. I. team of Cincinnati. The Arcadians won the game in the ninth inning and the showing of the team shows that it has the right stuff.

The only change in the line up will be the third base. Rushville was unable to hold Murray. Murray was unreasonable in his demands and the team will have to do without him. Of course, the fans and the management hate to see him go, but there are just as good ball players as Murray, and a good man will be secured. Murray will play with the Indianapolis Reserves. He wanted the management here to pay him his salary rain or shine, and as this is something that the rest of the players are not getting, it was thought best not to set the precedent.

The fans thought that the team could not get along without Halterman, but so far the team has succeeded and will do so without the services of the speedy third baseman. The management offered Murray all the money he asked for to play here, but balked when it came to paying him whether he played or not, and if Andy Reinhardt can afford to do this that is the place for Murray. The management has a line on a third baseman from Cincinnati. His name is Stark and he has been playing at Middletown, Ohio. Stark desires to get away from Middletown and comes highly recommended to Rushville. Manager Jordan, of the Y. M. I. team, stated that he was as fast as Murray and would make a valuable man for Rushville. It will be known tomorrow if he can come here. Good third basemen are hard to find, but one will be secured and the management promises to get a man the equal of Murray.

TAKE OVER RESTAURANT.

The McCoy sisters, well known caterers, have taken charge of the City Restaurant, succeeding Frank Rogers as manager of the place. The restaurant will be conducted in a high class manner and as the McCoy sisters are well known they should succeed.

METHODISTS AND CHRISTIANS PLAY

Game Scheduled For Tomorrow Afternoon in Sunday School League—Both Confident.

FLATROCK HERE SATURDAY

The Methodists and Christians will play tomorrow afternoon in the Sunday school league. Both teams will present their best line up and the contest promise to be hard fought. The Christians by winning can jump into a tie with the Presbyterians for second place. The Methodists and Christians have played close games in the other two previous contests and both teams are confident of winning. Gunning will probably pitch for the Christians and may be opposed by Caldwell. The game will be called at four-fifteen o'clock.

Saturday afternoon the Presbyterians and Flatrock teams will play their second game. The Presbyterians believe they can make a better showing than they did Saturday when the Flatrock team defeated them by the one-sided score of 18 to 5.

RUSHVILLE TO HEAR INNES' BEST

Famous Band Leader Prepares Programs of Intrinsic Merit For Two Concerts at Chautauqua.

SOLOISTS OF GREAT WORTH

Beatrice Van Loon, Famous Holland-Dutch Soprano, and Harpist of Note Will Play.

The Innes orchestral band, which comes to the chautauqua tomorrow for two full concerts, afternoon and evening, will give two elaborate programs, the equal of which the people of Rushville have never had the opportunity of hearing and which they may never have again.

I. J. Williams, harp soloist with the band, is the most accomplished performer on the harp in the country, and has been identified with the Innes Band so long that neither he, nor Mr. Innes remember when it first happened. Yet if you were to approach almost any of the Innes's men and inquire whether Mr. Williams was still with them, the chances are he would say he didn't know him and never heard of him. Mention the harp soloist and he would say "Oh, you mean Jimmie Wurlitzer. Yes, sure he's with us." When Mr. Williams made his professional debut as an artist he was in possession of a Wurlitzer harp to which he had been regularly and legally married for some years and to which he always referred in respectful tones as "Old Wurlitzer" and so it happened that he lost his identity in his instrument and his fellow bandmen presently began to refer to him as Wurlitzer's Jimmie which in succeeding years was permanently corrupted to Jimmie Wurlitzer where it now stands. However aside from all this Mr. Williams is some harp player and has done more to popularize the instrument than any other one person.

He is to the harp what Paderewski is to the piano, a perfect exponent, and he has done more probably, to popularize the instrument than any other one man. He plays very few engagements that he is not sought after the performance. By ladies—one or more—who want to know whether the instrument is complicated; whether it is difficult to learn; whether it taken long to learn; whether they are expensive and so on ad infinitum. Mr. Williams always courteously answers that the instrumental is very complicated to machinery but not difficult to learn to play, eight or ten lessons being usually sufficient to enable one to play quite satisfactorily. He adds that he has spent all his life studying the instrument and still studies, but says that for parlor amusement, a reasonably proficient person could produce results more quickly than on a piano and more satisfactorily. He frequently naively remarks that any charming woman looks twice as charming behind a harp as elsewhere and thereby he gains additional popularity. Mr. Williams will be heard here in his own composition "Reverie—Caprice."

Beatrice Van Loon, the famous Holland-Dutch soprano, who is the soloist with Innes' band, was born at The Hague and educated at Brussels, Dresden and Paris. She is the daughter of an American mother and commenced her musical career as a soloist on the violin.

The accompanying programs indicate the part Van Loon will have in the program. Patrons of the chautauqua are urged to cut these programs out and carry them to the concerts Wednesday. Here are the programs:

Overture, Tannhauser—Wagner.
(a) Marionet Dance, Op 52, No. 2—Glazounow. (b) Dance of the Flowers, from Nails—Debussy.
Solo for Flute, Air and Variations—Demersmann Franking.
Carmen, Fantasy—Bizet.
(a) West Virginia State Song—Innes.
This song was awarded the prize of $1,000 offered by the State of West Virginia. It received its formal presentation at the Semi-Centennial Celebration of the admission of the state into the Union, at Wheeling, June 20th, 1913, upon which occasion it was given by a chorus of fifty thousand voices and twenty-seven bands, and has been officially adopted as The State Song of West Virginia. The words are by S. T. Kiser. The words are by S. T. Kiser.

(b) Chorus of the Camorristi, from The Jewels of The Madonna—Wolf-Ferri.
Second Hungarian Rhapsody—Liszt.
Song, (a) Mother Dear—Jefferson.

NUMBER OF FIRES BELOW THE AVERAGE

Loss During Third Week in July is $547,481, Which Includes Indianapolis Fire.

The loss by fire in Indiana during the third week of July was $547,481, which included the wholesale district fire in Indianapolis. This was reported at $446,000, which left the loss in the rest of the state a little more than $100,000. There was a total of 131 fires which was considerably below the weekly average. Lightning again claimed a share of the responsibility, causing 27 fires with a total loss of $28,938. Of the 27 buildings struck by lightning, 24 are known to have been without lightning rods, while in the other 3 cases no report was made on this point.

Under the law the various assistants of the fire marshal throughout the state are required to report all fires within ten days after they occur, furnishing detailed information concerning the origin, loss and insurance. It is thus possible for the fire marshal's department to have comparatively accurate records up to within ten days of the current date.
